COVID's Silver Lining – an Art Therapy Response

COVID has challenged us in ways we have never imaged. It has impacted on nearly every aspect of our lives as we juggle our responsibilities in an ever changing world. This workshop is your chance to experience a therapeutic response to COVID, to draw out and identify your own personal challenges, and silver linings, in this hands on creative response with Art Therapists.

Wednesday 4th May
6:30pm

Another way of Communicating with the MDT

This presentation was originally written to highlight the role of HPS working with children and families being cared for by the palliative care team. After its first presentation there was additional feedback and comments that allowed further reflection to be added to refine it to how HPS might better communicate it to the wider MDT.

What we say and how we say it Matters – Exploring language theory in a Hospital Play Specialist context

This presentation will briefly introduce some key linguistics theory and perspectives. From here, we'll discuss how HPS can use language techniques that respond to the age, developmental stage, culture, neuro-diversity and identity of our patients and honour the strand of Mana Reo.

Lanne Jensen-Wade

Providing Mahi-a-Wairua in our communities

Through Lanne's background in Education and Māori Health, she will be talking through how what she does in Wairua can impact on tamariki, hauora, and mental health. Lanne will be bringing the two together in the space you work in utilizing the Whare Tapawhā Model, with ideas and strategies that can be implemented to assist the healing of others. This will include simple tips for example Ōrongo (meditation), grounding using our natural elements, and other mindfulness activities.
